

The Art of Cultivating Professional Ingenuity

How do I and we move beyond what is getting in the way of bold, innovative and sustained action?

Just below the surface we're all interconnected. Let's gather to learn from and with one another.

The quality of our engagement with each other has a direct impact on our success as individuals, communities, organizations, cities, regions, nations, and as a species. A community's success, sense of identity, vision and place all turn on the quality of our conversation, our ingenuity in facing challenges, and our willingness to learn and explore with each other.

The Details:

When: September 17-19, 2010

Where: The Village Creek Country Inn, "The Village at Pigeon Lake," Alberta

Tuition: $750/person (for group of 3 or more $500/person) plus GST.
Meals and accommodation, including tax are $450.

To register: www.populus.ca or call us

Any questions? Please contact Margaret Sanders at 780-586-2551, or marg@mindsprings.ca

(If the cost is a barrier to your participation, please contact us for a creative tuition conversation.)

Your Hosts - designing for learning

The hosting team will design opportunities for reflection and conversation, creating the conditions to uncover, emerge and support new practices for transformational communities of learning.

Margaret Sanders BEd, MEd, - educator, coach, facilitator for transformational learning, co-creator of Mindsprings Inc.

Beth Sanders BA, MCP, ACP, MCIP – professional community planner, facilitator for urban and community change, conversation and process artist, coach, principal of POPULUS Community Planning Inc.

Hugh Sanders BEd, MEd, - educator, coach, facilitator for transformational learning, co-creator of Mindsprings Inc.

mindsprings

POPULUS
Community Planning Inc.